

Chapter 1303

She said, "But she was embarrassed here today, even... Even her underwear was exposed. I think she definitely won't go to the kindergarten today. Maybe she might've even transferred her daughter to another school?"

Sebastian answered, "Try and guess, do you think she will pick up her child as if nothing had happened?"

Sabrina said, "No, unless she's lost her mind!"

He pulled her into his arms. After all, his wife was too kind and innocent. She had seen how menacing and vicious the outside world could be. Not only that, she could not wade through it all by herself.

But unfortunately, she was always very forgetful.

That afternoon, Sebastian personally drove with his wife to the

That afternoon, Christian personally drove with his wife to the kindergarten to pick up his precious daughter. Throughout the journey, Sabrina kept looking at her neck in the rearview mirror. Luckily, her new clothes had an attached scarf. Wrapped under the scarf, all the marks could be covered.

When they arrived at the kindergarten, it was five minutes before the school opened its gates and released the children so they could go home.

Many young mothers gathered at the kindergarten. At the sight of Sabrina, many of them greeted her enthusiastically.

“Hey, Aino’s mom, you came with your husband today. Mr...Mr. Ford... Director Ford, hello.”

“Director Ford! It’s Director Ford!”

“Oh, my God! Director Ford personally came to pick up his

"Oh, my God! Director Ford personally came to pick up his daughter!"

"This is the first time I've seen Director Ford from such a close distance!"

Sabrina hooked her arm through her husband's arm casually. She said to him softly, "Director Ford! Not only did you win the hearts of countless young girls all over the city, you even won the hearts of countless young mothers. I will die of jealousy if this goes on. From now on, I forbid you from greeting any other woman! You can't even look at them for a second longer!" Sabrina ordered her husband domineeringly.

She did not realize her reactions when she was jealous were almost on par with his.

Sebastian was speechless. "..."

At that moment, he felt like a wax figure, forbidden from looking at

At that moment, he felt like a wax figure, forbidden from looking at anyone; all he could do was hold on to his wife's arm.

"Wow, Director Ford is so cool; exactly like the rumors!"

"I am so envious of Aino's mom..."

"Everyone knows that Director Ford is cool and handsome, but the thing is, he's even afraid of his wife..."

"Oh, my God!"

"Besides jealousy -- ugly, naked jealousy -- there's nothing else I can say!"

Wading through the sea of discussion, Sebastian and Sabrina walked into the kindergarten to pick up their daughter.

The little girl Aino had incredibly sharp eye-sight. At one glance she noticed that both her parents came together to pick her up. The little girl together to pick her up. The little girl shouted, "Daddy, Daddy is here to pick me up. Jennifer, my Daddy and Mommy both came to pick me up! I'm so happy!"

Recently, Jennifer had been sticking to Aino's side. Aino pitied her and could not bear to push her away. The little girl inherited some parts of her mother's personality, she was very soft-hearted. She held the other girl's hand and ran outside.

"Daddy..." When she was near her father, she opened her arms wide and ran toward him.

Sebastian bent down and flung his arms open too, prepared to welcome his daughter. The little girl rushed into his arms, and laughed, "Hahaha ..."

Her laughter sounded like the chimes of ringing bells; it was extremely pleasing to the ears.

Sabrina stood beside them, her arm

Sabrina stood beside them, her arm hooked through her husband's, looking at him and their child. A happy and content smile blossomed across her face.

"Daddy, let's go home. Goodbye, Jennifer." The little girl turned and bid goodbye to her friend.

Standing in the near distance, Jennifer looked very lonely. But what could she do?

Sabrina smiled sympathetically at the little girl, then turned together with her husband and daughter. The moment she turned around, she saw an unexpected figure.

Lori was standing ten meters away from them, staring at the three of them with an insidious expression on her face.

"Hi, what a coincidence," Sabrina greeted Lori casually and confidently.