

Chapter 1342

At that moment, Sabrina almost lost herself in anger. She naturally did not know that someone was outside the hotel, about to rush in to save her.

She forced herself to remain calm. "Dad! You have no right to get two guards to detain me!"

"I'm not your dad! You'll be divorcing my son, so I don't know you! How could I know a woman as shameless as you?! Not only are you shameless, you even tried to bite back at me. Today, I'll prove my innocence first, then send you straight to my son, and let him deal with you!"

Sabrina was speechless.

"Guards! Make sure she doesn't go anywhere!" Sean ordered the guards.

The guards said, "That... Deputy director, you..."

"Do what I say! I'll bear any responsibilities!" Sean shouted angrily. The two guards were scared, and immediately grabbed a hold of Sabrina.

Sabrina remained quiet.

Then, Sean took out his phone and dialed a

Then, Sean took out his phone and dialed a number.

Sabrina thought he was calling Sebastian, but the call quickly went through, and Sean immediately said, "Rose, are you done with your shopping? Come over here right now. I caught Sabrina in the act!"

Sabrina said nothing.

She was incredibly shocked.

Her father-in-law was clearly meeting Jennie privately.

She clearly heard Jennie's nauseating, gag-inducing flirty tone earlier, but now Sean was actually calling Rose over and telling Rose he had Sabrina?

And Rose seemed to be nearby too!

What was that situation?

Sabrina realized that Jennie and her daughter were not simpletons.

Their trap was quite elaborate!

Sabrina looked over at the two of them.

Jennie was shooting Sabrina a challenging smile.

Lori did not even bother looking for Sabrina, and instead played with her phone like nothing was happening.

Actually, Lori was not playing with her phone.

She was giving someone a call.

And that call was a hidden signal between two people.

After the phone rang three times, Lori hung up.

She did not call anyone random, but the man who had called out to Sabrina and hugged her in the hotel earlier.

The man was someone who Lori had met before she got off the plane and applied to work at Zach's company.

The man's name was Steve Gibson.

Because he had the same surname as Lori, he tried his best to get closer to her the moment he saw her.

Steve's hometown was a little town three thousand kilometers away from South City.

Thanks to his connections within the town, he managed to secure a deal with the Smith Group from the city.

Smith Group from the city.

With just that deal alone, he would stand to earn about twenty million.

The man was basically a king in his small town.

Many of the local beauties there had fallen prey to him. However, Steve had never seen a woman like Lori, who was cold, proud and of good temperament. A beauty that was educated, cultured, and capable.

The first time Steve saw Lori was in Zach's office...

At that moment, Steve actually knelt down in front of Lori.

He actually offered to give Lori all of his assets and all of his fortunes, as long as Lori was willing to marry him.

Lori's reaction then was to send a kick right at Steve's face.

Yet, Steve instead hugged Lori's leg, and seemed to be in a daze. "Wow, this leg smells so good. This leg is the pinnacle of legs in the world. This leg feels like it descended from heaven, and to hold it is my greatest happiness."
