

Chapter 1451

Sebastian asked, "What do you know?"

"Young Lord Holden from the Payne family is the biological child of your mother and me, and he is also your younger twin brother. When I had gone to your mother's grave that afternoon on Sunday, I had indeed seen Holden there."

Sebastian asked, "Where is he?"

Sean glanced at his son, and his tone has a slight sense of ingratiating. "Sebastian, he... was drunk as a skunk in front of your mother's grave that day. If your stepmother and I did not save him, he would've lost his life, do you know that?"

Sebastian said, "He is my biological brother! Of course, I know it. In this lifetime of mine, other than Aino, he is my only relative! I have been looking for him.

However, he was so reckless that he was clearly ready to fight to his death, so I had never dared to go near him. Since he was drunk in front of my mother's grave and you saw him there, then why didn't you hand him over to me?"

Sean asked, "You... what are you talking

Sean asked, "You...what are you talking about, Sebastian?"

"That's my biological brother! My younger twin brother!"

Sean was speechless.

Sebastian said to his father coldly, "Although it is true that the Ford Group was the empire that was built by the forefathers of the Ford family when it came to my generation, then there's only Holden and I left. He is also your biological son, so shouldn't he also get half of your properties? Where did you send him to?"

Sean suddenly cried. "My son, if...if I had known that you have such intentions, then I ...I wouldn't have sent your brother away."

Speaking of that, the old man suddenly cried in an incomparably pitiful manner.

"Your...your three elder brothers and your few cousins, you had not spared any of their lives. I had seen with my own eyes how vicious you are when handling matters. Now that he is the only one left, I was afraid..."

Sean had not finished his word, but Sebastian had already understood it. Sebastian then sneered. "You thought that I

Sebastian then sneered. "You thought that I would not spare his life?"

Sean did not answer.

"Dad!" Sebastian rarely addressed Sean as Dad. In a fit of anger at this moment, he called out to him.

"Dad, you only think that I will not even spare the life of my own brothers, but did you know this? When those sons of yours joined forces to have me killed and when they locked me up in that pitch-black old mansion and poisoned me to the brink of dying, why didn't you think they were vicious? If it wasn't for Sabrina! I would have died seven years ago! Before they had harmed me, I didn't even want to return to this country, so how was it possible for me to think of harming them? But what about my mother? How innocent was my mother! She had been set up by Rose and her few sons, and was imprisoned for more than ten years! Now you're going the other way around to say that I am vicious to my brothers! Dad, no matter how vicious I was, I had never actively harmed and killed anybody. I was only obeying my own principles! My principle is that I will not mess with others if they don't mess with me. However, if they do mess with me, then they will definitely die!"

they will definitely die!"

Speaking of which, Sebastian sighed and laughed. "It's all in the past now, so what's the point of talking about it anymore? Where is he now?"

Sean wiped off his tears. "I-I was afraid that you would not spare his life, so I...sent him to the northwest region of the country from Kidon City via the highway. After that, I sent him abroad through the northwest border. Before he left, I gave him some life savings, a few hundred million dollars. Sebastian, you don't have to worry about his life abroad. A few hundred million dollars are enough for him to get by."

Sebastian was speechless. There was a pause before he said, "This is the only way at this moment. After he has settled down abroad, tell him to come back if he can no longer survive out there. He will always have half of the family business here in South City. Even if he doesn't acknowledge his parents, but as his elder brother, I had never done him any wrong, right?"

Sean nodded. "My son is right. I am also worried about him being abroad. His character is unlike yours. He...is just like a spoiled child. I am worried about him. I... will inform him now and ask him to return never done him any wrong, right?

Sean nodded. "My son is right. I am also worried about him being abroad. His character is unlike yours. He...is just like a spoiled child. I am worried about him. I... will inform him now and ask him to return immediately. We...the three of us can then reunite together as father and sons."

After saying that, Sean immediately called Holden.

However, it was not Holden on the other end of the call. "The number that you have dialed does not exist."
